

Thursday 14th December 2017 - 10am to 5.30pm

Mathematics Education Symposium at the UCL Institute of Education (London)

*‘Bringing together research and practice:
Critical perspectives and ways forward’*

- Three keynote speakers will explore the connections and influences between research and practice in their fields of expertise.
- Working groups will provide opportunities to discuss the presentations and pose follow-up questions to the speakers.
- Lunchtime poster presentations.

Confirmed keynote speakers:

- Dr. Alison Clark-Wilson (UCL Knowledge Lab)
- Professor Lulu Healy (King’s College London)
- Professor Jeremy Hodgen (UCL Institute of Education)

- Targeted at researchers, teachers, postgrad students and teacher educators.
- Free attendance. Engage and network with others interested in maths education.
- For further info, register your interest here: <https://goo.gl/forms/nXRR07BhFW1ReI052>